

8 Life-Saving Rules

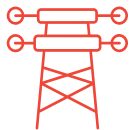

While it is our expectation that members follow all company policies, standard operating procedures and safety standard operating procedures, the Life-Saving Rules listed below focus on high-risk work activities that carry the greatest threat of serious injury or death. The Life-Saving Rules support OG&E's commitment to an incident-and injury-free culture and are the result of a collaborative effort among our members and leadership.

Follow the company driving policy and procedures regarding electronic communication devices while driving.

Follow procedures for approach distance to energized conductors and equipment.

Follow procedures for grounding of lines and equipment.

Follow procedures for permitting, clearances, and lockout/tag out.

Follow procedures for wearing fall protection.

Follow confined/enclosed space procedures.

Follow trenching and shoring procedures.

Follow procedures for utilizing safety guards and mechanisms on tools, equipment, and machinery without bypassing, disarming, or otherwise tampering with safety guards, mechanisms, devices, and/or equipment.
